

The journal call "Islamic Ummah studies" published in English

The University of Islamic Denominations is an international university in the realm of Humanities and Islamic studies. There are students from different nationalities studying in this university. The main subjects which the UID has held different courses and seminars are the Interfaith and Intersects Dialogues. This approach is not limited only to courses and seminars but also in practice the UID is involved in admitting students from different sects and religious backgrounds which distinguishes it from other universities in this realm. Recently the University is intended to establish an International Journal in the main subjects of which the UID is involved in order to receive the viewpoints of scholars from all over the world. The Journal will be in English and under the title of "Islamic Ummah Studies".

